V. Other

1. Adoption of Anti-Takeover Measures

Adoption of Anti-Takeover Measures	Adopted
------------------------------------	---------

Supplementary Explanation

1. Details of basic policy

The Company will not, as a rule, oppose a large-scale purchase of the Company's share (in this business report, hereinafter, "Large-scale Purchase") by a specific person if it contributes to the Company's corporate value and, more importantly, shareholders' common interests. In addition, we believe that whether or not to accept a Large-scale Purchase should ultimately be determined based on the intent of shareholders.

However, a person who makes a Large-scale Purchase that does not contribute to the corporate value and, more importantly, shareholders' common interests, shall be the exception and not appropriate for a person who controls the determination of the Company's financial and business policies. We believe that we need to ensure the Company's corporate value and, more importantly, shareholders' common interests by taking the necessary and appropriate measures against Large-scale Purchases by such persons.

2. Initiatives to prevent inappropriate control and judgement by the Board of Directors

(1) Measures for increasing corporate value

Under the management concept of "to become a world leader as a general manufacturer of oil-less bearings and serve society through technology," the Company masters core technologies of friction, wear and lubrication through original research and development, which it deploys globally thereby contributing to society, which is today's management foundation.

Furthermore, the Company has set the following long-term vision, which is linked to medium-term management plans and annual management plans and undertakes initiatives to establish the Oiles brand in the global market to achieve the management concept.

Long-term Vision

- A company that contributes to the preservation of the global environment and delivers safety, and comfort through the products and technologies required by the world
- A market-creating company that pursues tribology technology (friction, wear, lubrication) and damping technology (vibration control) to create "one in the world" products
- A company that fulfills its social responsibility (CSR) and helps realize a sustainable society through business with high contribution

(2) Policy for responding to Large-scale Purchase of the Company's share

With the approval of shareholders obtained at the 55th Ordinary General Meeting of Shareholders held on June 29, 2006, the Company introduced measures to deal with advanced-warning type Large-scale Purchases of the Company's share (which includes changes made by resolution at the Company's 70th Ordinary General Meeting of Shareholders held on June 29, 2021; hereinafter the "Policy"). The Policy is, in principle, to not take countermeasures against Large-scale Purchases where the person conducting the Large-scale Purchase (hereinafter, "Large-scale Purchaser") complies with the Large-scale Purchase rules prescribed by the Company in advance. However, where a Large-scale Purchaser does not comply with such rule, the Company's Board of Directors may take countermeasures such as issuing share acquisition rights for the purpose of protecting shareholders' common interests to oppose the Large-scale Purchase.

(3) The above initiatives are in line with the Company's basic policy on control, do not damage shareholders' common interests and are not for the purpose of maintaining the status of the Company's officers and such reasons

Since the initiatives in (1) above are basic measures to increase corporate value and, for the following reasons, the initiatives in (2) above are all in line with the basic policy in 1. above, we believe this does not damage shareholders' common interests and is not for the purpose of maintaining the status of the Company's officers.

a) The Policy satisfies the three principles (principle of protecting and enhancing corporate value and shareholders' common interests, principle of prior disclosure and shareholders' will and principle of ensuring the necessity and reasonableness of defensive measures) defined in the "Guidelines Regarding Takeover Defense for the Purposes of Protection and Enhancement of Corporate Value and Shareholders' Common Interest" (hereinafter, "Guidelines") released by the Ministry of Economy, Trade and Industry and the Ministry of Justice on May 27, 2005, and is very rational.

In addition, based on the above three principles prescribed in the Guidelines, consideration is also given to the details of the "Takeover Defense Measures in Light of Recent Environmental Changes," released by the Corporate Value Study Group located in the Ministry of Economy, Trade and Industry on June 30, 2008 and “Principle 1.5 Anti-Takeover Measures” in Japan’s Corporate Governance Code, released by the Tokyo Stock Exchange on June 1, 2015 and other practices and discussions concerning takeover defense measures.

b) The Policy has been introduced and maintained to ensure and increase the Company’s corporate value and, more importantly, shareholders’ common interest so that shareholders can judge when there has been a Large-scale Purchase of the Company’s share whether or not to accept such Large-scale Purchase or to enable matters such as securing time and information necessary for the Company’s Board of Directors to indicate an alternative proposal or negotiating with the purchaser for the benefit of shareholders.

In addition, the continuation of the Policy is conditional on the acceptance of shareholders, and the Policy may be terminated in accordance with the intent of shareholders, so we believe the Policy is ensuring no damage to the shareholders’ common interests.

c) The Policy has been effective since being approved by shareholders at the 70th Ordinary General Meeting of Shareholders and reflects the intent of shareholders.

In addition, in the case of a resolution with the aim of terminating the Policy at a Company’s General Meeting of Shareholders during the term of the Policy’s validity, the Policy would be terminated at such time, which would reflect the intent of shareholders.

d) In invoking the countermeasures in the Policy, advice is taken from the Special Committee comprised of members who are independent of the management that executes the Company’s business, with maximum respect given to that committee’s recommendations. There are also procedures in place to ensure transparent operations of the Policy, so that the Policy operates appropriately, arbitrary judgements by the Board of Directors are prevented and it contributes to the Company’s corporate value and, more importantly, shareholders’ common interests.

e) The Policy can be terminated at anytime by the Board of Directors, which comprises directors appointed at the Company’s General Meeting of Shareholders. Therefore, the Policy is not a dead-hand type takeover defense plan (a takeover defense plan whose exercise cannot be prevented even after replacing a majority of the members of the Board of Directors). In addition, since the term of office of directors is one year, it is also not a slow-hand type takeover defense plan (a takeover defense plan that requires time to obstruct invoking the Policy since the members of the Board of Directors cannot be replaced at one time).

Even in relation to the requirements for a resolution to dismiss directors, the Company has not weighted the requirements for the resolution so that a special resolution is required.

2. Other Matters Concerning Corporate Governance System

[Outline of timely disclosure structure]

(1) The attitude of managers and the general knowledge and awareness of policies, etc.

The Company defines in the Group Corporate Conduct Charter that corporate information is to be properly managed and disclosed in a timely and proactive manner.

In addition, based on the recognition of a common understanding at the Company and each Group company through this Group Corporate Conduct Charter, there is general knowledge and awareness of the importance and necessity for timely disclosure.

(2) Recognition and analysis of the features and risks concerning timely disclosure

The Oiles Group promotes business in Japan and overseas mainly in the bearings division, structural division and architectural division, so there are concerns that a lack of appropriate information disclosure will affect stakeholders. Therefore, initiatives are in place for relevant departments such as the Corporate Strategy Department, which controls Group companies in Japan and overseas, and the General Affairs Department, which acts as the secretariat for the Company’s Board of Directors, to mutually coordinate and provide timely and appropriate information disclosure.

(3) Organization in charge of disclosure

The disclosure of timely disclosure information at the Company has a structure for prompt disclosure with the general manager of the Corporate Planning & Administrative Division responsible for handling information and the General Affairs Department, Corporate Planning & Administrative Division prescribed as the principal department pertaining to timely disclosure operations.

In addition, a structure has been prepared for the systemic dissemination of information across the Company and the establishment of the Disclosure Committee under the direct control of the President chaired by the general manager of the Corporate Planning & Administrative Division in a structure to ensure integrated information disclosure to stakeholders.

Note that Group Internal Information Management Regulations have been prepared that define standards for handling the management of internal information and related matters for the Company and Group companies, which strive for appropriate operations and prevention of insider trading.

(4) Timely disclosure procedures

Matters that could be subject to timely disclosure by the Company and Group companies are resolved by the Company's Board of Directors, so the information is collected at the General Affairs Department, which is also the secretariat for the Board of Directors.

In addition, departments that draft matters that could be subject to timely disclosure and the General Affairs Department consider the requirements for timely disclosure and the disclosure documents referring to the Timely Disclosure Rules of the Tokyo Stock Exchange.

As a result, matters subject to timely disclosure are promptly announced and disclosed (TDnet registration, press conferences, etc.) by the General Affairs Department, the principal department, following the approval of the Board of Directors, and on the occurrence of material facts, the general manager of the Corporate Planning & Administrative Division confirms and promptly announces and discloses (TDnet registration, press conferences, etc.) the facts at the same time as reporting to the President.

Note that the Company identifies and comprehensively gathers information subject to disclosure categorized as information on decisions made, occurrence of material facts, and financial information with reference to the Timely Disclosure Rules of the Tokyo Stock Exchange.

(5) Preparation of monitoring subject to the timely disclosure structure

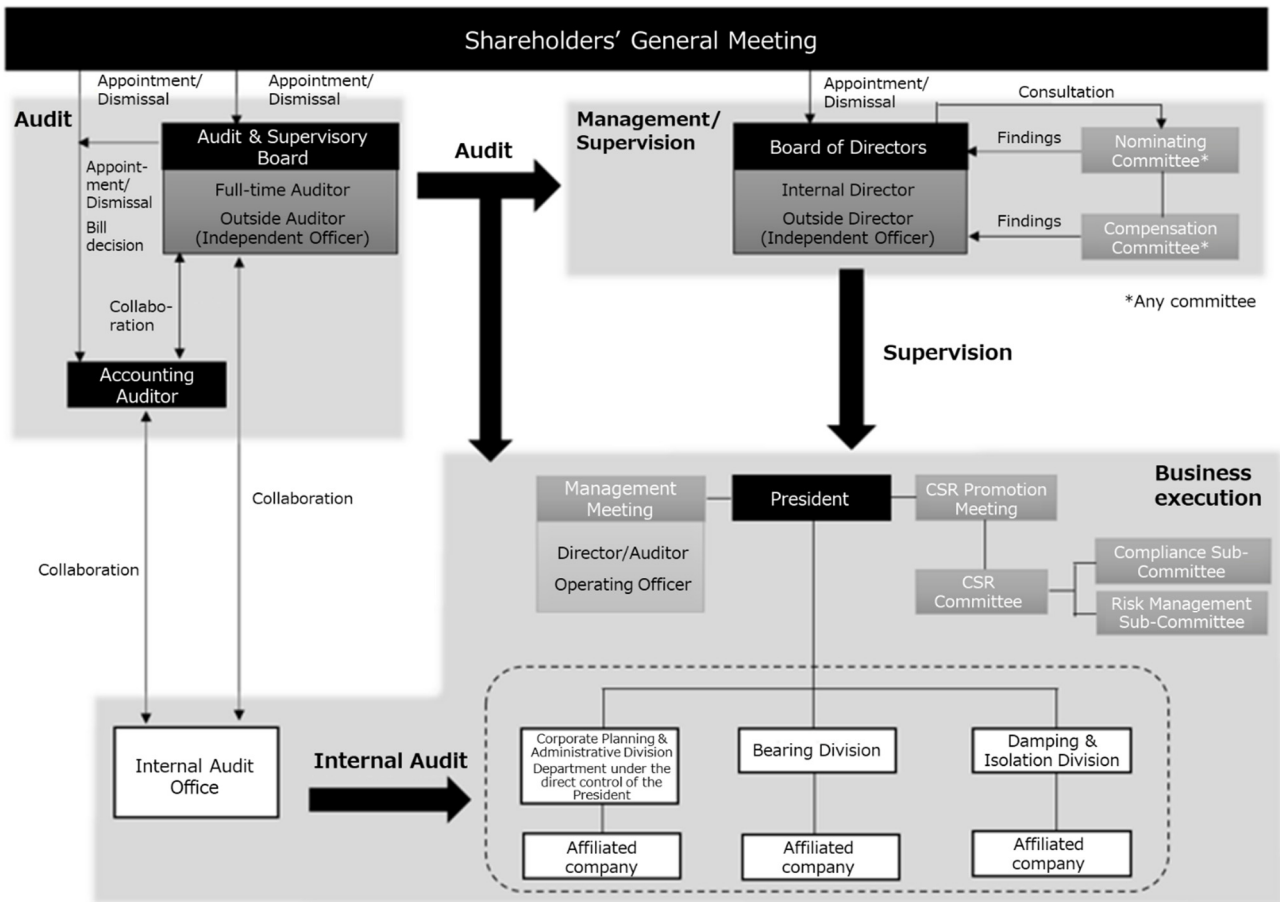

Auditors who are independent from management attend important committees including the Board of Directors and the Management Meeting, audit the properness of business execution and, through its audit, monitor the directors' execution of business in relation to the preparation and operation of the timely disclosure structure.

In addition, an audit is conducted by the Internal Audit Office, which sits under the direct control of the President, and through this audit of the properness of business execution regularly monitors the Company's business departments, etc. in relation to the preparation and operation of the timely disclosure structure.

Auditors and the Internal Audit Office both coordinate and ensure the effectiveness of monitoring.
