2. Reasons for revision

Dip has revised its sales forecast for FY’22/2 Q4 in consideration of factors such as the expected impact of the resurgence of COVID-19 on client companies’ job advertisements. It also plans to make an upfront advertising investment of ¥1.4 billion in FY’22/2 Q4 in anticipation of a further increase in market share and sales growth at Baitoru PRO after the pandemic. Based on these factors, dip revises its full-year operating results forecasts for FY’22/2.
