(2) Reasons for the Revision

The Company has revised up its forecast for ordinary income due to an expected upturn in investment income caused by the improvement in market environment, despite a reduction in insurance premiums and others due to lower-than-expected acquisition of new business and an expected increase in excess provision for contingency reserves¹ compared with that of when the initial financial results forecast² was formulated.

The Company has revised up its forecasts for ordinary profit and net income attributable to Japan Post Insurance due to an expected decrease in operating expenses in addition to the above factors.

1. For the Postal Life Insurance category, the Company accumulated additional policy reserves funded by contingency reserves at the end of March 2021. In conjunction with this, the Company provided excess provision for contingency reserves in order to restore the level of them at the end of March 2021 and thereafter.
2. The initial consolidated financial results forecast for the fiscal year ending March 31, 2022, which was announced on May 14, 2021. This is based on the economic assumptions as of December 31, 2020.

2. Year-End Dividend Forecast for the Fiscal Year Ending March 31, 2022

The Company announced on May 14, 2021 that it forecast an annual dividend of ¥90 per share for the fiscal year ending March 31, 2022 (including a year-end dividend of ¥45 per share). The forecast remains unchanged.
