1. Current Situation of Uur Corporate Group

(1) Business progress and results

(1) Major policies for the Fiscal Year Ended March 31, 2022

During this fiscal year (April 1, 2021 to March 31, 2022), Japan's economy continued showing signs of recovery as the tough times caused by the impacts of the COVID-19 pandemic have eased, but a sense of uncertainty remains due to the situation in Ukraine among other factors warranting caution toward downside risks. In the information services industry, while the demand for developing and enhancing the telecommuting environment since last year has come full circle, corporate ICT investment, which had been continually suppressed, has resumed, and demand related in particular to digital transformation ("DX") for strengthening businesses and promoting transformation has been increasing.

In this climate, the TDC SOFT Group aims to become a next-generation system integrator as stated in its medium-term management plan "Shift to the Smart SI" for the period between April 2019 and March 2022. Our vision is to evolve into a next-generation system integration ("SI") business geared toward new trends in digital technology based on the potential needs of the market.

To make the vision from our medium-term management plan a reality, we have two Group-wide core strategies. One is to "create high value-added SI services." We tap into the latest elemental technologies to pursue services designed to meet the needs of customers promoting DX for value creation. The other is to "support SI model reforms." We use innovative approaches to build infrastructure for high value-added SI services and to develop an SI process designed to ensure high productivity and high quality, and promote initiatives to differentiate ourselves from competitors.

In February 2021, we made a downward revision to the performance targets in our medium-term management plan for both net sales and profit due to project postponements and other impacts of the COVID-19 pandemic. However, we see demand for next-generation SI to be increasing, including for DX-related services that promote the enhancement and transformation of our customers' businesses, and to that end we did not change the core strategies for the period set forth in the medium-term management plan "Shift to the Smart SI." Instead, we pursued a policy of promoting initiatives based on the plan, responding to external changes in the business environment with flexibility while working to definitively address and remedy issues that arose throughout the course the plan. Major initiatives are as follows.

i) Initiatives for core strategy "create high-value-added SI services"

In order to expand high-value-added SI services that meet customers' needs of creating value, the Company has proactively engaged in human resource development and business development, considering the technologies that will greatly impact future society and businesses as focus fields. In particular, agile development, information system security, and other businesses, which have been set as our key strategic fields since the fiscal year ended March 31, 2020, have grown steadily. Net sales from these businesses achieved the ¥5,000 million target set out in our original medium-term management plan, increasing to ¥5,390 million, or 60.3% year on year, in the fiscal year ended March 31, 2022 and accounted for 17.4% of consolidated net sales, up 5.1 percentage points from the previous year.

Business Report

a. Key strategic field: Agile development business

In order to expand the domestic enterprise agile market, the Company has been promoting initiatives such as joint research between academia and the business community and cooperation with global companies since the previous fiscal year. In the agile development business, during the period under review, we have offered services for quick management decision-making, consulting services to help with system development, and educational services using the Scaled Agile Framework® (“SAFe®”) based on a strengthened alliance with the U.S. company Scaled Agile, Inc. under a gold partner contract. In addition, we have entered into a business partnership agreement with Ricksoft Co., Ltd. to promote the development of services following best practices for business transformation using SAFe®. These initiatives led net sales of the agile development business to increase steadily, up 21.2% year on year.

b. Key strategic field: Information system security business

In the information system security business, we are working to expand our high-value-added SI services through the promotion of SI solutions using local 5G in collaboration with closip (company name changed from LTE-X Inc.), a capital and business tie-up partner with competitive strengths in the field of network security, the formation of an alliance agreement with Internet Research Institute, Inc. in the field of cyber security, the expansion of security diagnostic services, and other efforts.

ii) Initiatives for core strategy “support SI model reforms”

During the fiscal year under review, we promoted activities for open innovation with our alliance partners and subsidiaries. More specifically, we promoted cooperation with our alliance partners in the agile development and information system security businesses stated in the aforementioned “create high-value-added SI services,” strengthened our customer bases and service provision system through collaboration between our solution business departments and Yell Business Consulting, Inc.(company name changed from Yagi Business Consultant, Inc.), which we acquired through M&A during the fiscal year ended March 31, 2020 and that has a competitive advantage in the SAP field where migration demand is high, and made other efforts. In order to further improve the quality of our services and to increase the efficiency of quality assurance processes in development projects, we have introduced project performance evaluations and implemented measures to streamline the SI business by utilizing advanced technologies among other initiatives.

iii) Thorough implementation of COVID-19 countermeasures

While tough times have continued since the COVID-19 pandemic broke out during the previous fiscal year, the impact on our businesses has been limited as we worked to ensure smooth business continuity by implementing thorough COVID-19 countermeasures, proactively making use of remote work, and other measures, and project postponements have collectively turned around since the beginning of the fiscal year as the dip in customer appetite for IT investment has begun to ease.

iv) Proactive forward-looking investment

In light of the robust business conditions since the beginning of the fiscal year under review, we have been proactively engaged in investing activities aimed at further business expansion moving forward. Specifically, we have invested in corporate branding to secure human resources and improve employee engagement, as well as in acquiring elemental technologies related to UX (Note 1), containers (Note 2), and data analytics platforms (Note 3) in addition to the key strategic fields listed above.

As a result of these initiatives, the Group achieved the initial business performance targets set in its medium-term management plan of ¥30,000 million in net sales and ¥2,700 million in operating profit for the fiscal year. Net sales amounted to ¥30,925 million, up 13.3% year on year; operating profit amounted to ¥2,967 million, up 25.8% year on year; ordinary profit amounted to ¥3,082 million, up 20.2% year on year; and profit attributable to owners of parent amounted to ¥2,069 million, up 20.9% year on year.

Notes: 1. UX: User experience. The experience a user has through the use of a system or service.

2. Container: A type of technology used to create virtual runtime environments for applications and an important elemental technology in utilizing cloud-native applications, a recent subject of attention.

3. Data analytics platform: A technical platform that systematically conducts a series of operations to collect, store, process, and analyze data.

(4) Issues to address

In the information service industry to which the TDC SOFT Group belongs, the trend toward DX through technological innovation—including cloud computing, AI (artificial intelligence), the IoT (Internet of things), RPA (robotic process automation), blockchains, and microservices—is expected to increase strategic investment demand aimed at the enhancement of corporate competitiveness, and IT investment demand is also expected to stay on an increasing trend.

The TDC SOFT Group is aiming to become a next-generation system integrator as stated in its medium-term management plan “Shift to the Smart SI” for the period between April 2019 and March 2022. Our vision is to evolve into a next-generation system integration (“SI”) business that captures the latent needs of the market and adapts to digital technologies and new trends.

To make this vision a reality, we have two Group-wide core strategies.

One is to “create high-value-added SI services.” We tap into the latest elemental technologies to pursue services designed to meet the needs of customers promoting DX for value creation. The other is to “support SI model reforms.” We use innovative approaches to build infrastructure for high-value-added SI services and to develop an SI process designed to ensure high productivity and high quality, thereby differentiating ourselves from competitors.

(1) Pursuing high-value-added SI services

We tap into the latest elemental technologies to pursue services designed to meet the needs of customers promoting DX for value creation.

- i) Supporting customer DX with the latest technologies
- ii) Providing support to help resolve management issues through know-how that includes IT service management and specialized business knowledge
- iii) Providing problem-solving support that utilizes business and IT architects

(2) Promoting SI model reforms

i) Reforms to achieve a wide range of business practices that offer high service quality

We currently use highly skilled human resources for specific projects on an individual basis, but we would like to establish business practices that increase the service quality level of the Company as a whole, including the use of such human resources for multiple projects.

- Building practices to enable the integration and use of highly skilled human resources for a wide range of projects
- Building a unique Company agreement model, including agreement on the service level, incentives, etc. with customers

ii) Improving efficiency in the quality assurance process

We would like to establish SI services that reduce the system development burden faced by customers while also striving to improve the efficiency of project management and the quality assurance process.

- Streamlining the quality assurance process, supplemental work, etc.
- Improving the efficiency of the SI model by utilizing next-generation technologies (automation), etc.

Japan's economy is expected to recover moving forward as the tough times caused by the impacts of the COVID-19 pandemic ease and socio-economic activity begins to normalize. However, uncertainty is expected to continue for the foreseeable future due to the situation in Ukraine among other factors.

As the information services industry demonstrates robust overall growth, IT needs related to business transformation and work reforms through DX are expanding while at the same time growing more diverse and complex.

The TDC SOFT Group is aiming to become a next-generation system integrator as stated in its new medium-term management plan "Shift to the Smart SI Plus" which will begin in fiscal 2022. Our vision is to contribute to the realization of a smarter society by providing high value-added IT services based on the potential IT needs of the market as well as society.

To that end, we will strive to "expand our business domain" by adhering to the core strategies of "create high-value-added SI services" and "support SI model reforms" we have been pursuing since the previous medium-term management plan.

Specifically, we plan to expand our business domain and work to increase net sales and profit by strengthening efforts in our sales business, which sells products, services, etc. that meet a diverse array of customers' IT needs, in our consulting business, which supports customers in formulating strategies for their digital transformation, in providing managed services that integrate all aspects of IT solutions, from development through to operation and maintenance, etc.

The Company will welcome in its 60th anniversary this year on October 16.

As an expression of gratitude toward our shareholders for their continued support, we plan to pay out a commemorative dividend of ¥15 per share as an interim dividend during the upcoming fiscal year.

As a result, annual dividends per share will come to ¥45, consisting of ordinary dividends of ¥30 yen plus the commemorative dividend of ¥15.
