* 1 TCFD (Task Force on Climate-related Financial CFD)

In response to the G20's request, the Financial Stability Board (FSB), an international organization that includes central banks and financial regulators from selected countries, set up a project team in 2015 to examine how to disclose the climate-related information and to address the climate-related issues by financial institutions. The project team recommend that companies disclose climate-related information that has financial implications for their initiatives in four areas: governance, strategy, risk management, and indicators and targets.

* 2 TCFD Consortium

It was established in 2019 in Japan as a forum for discussions on effective disclosure of corporate information and initiatives where disclosed information leads to appropriate investment decisions by financial institutions. Companies and financial institutions that support the TCFD recommendations are promoting initiatives.
