The corporate governance of Fukuoka Financial Group, Inc. (the “Company”) is described below.

I. Basic Views on Corporate Governance, Capital Structure, Corporate Profile and Other Basic Information

1. Basic Views

The Group’s management principles state the Group’s goal to become a financial group that creates value for all stakeholders, including shareholders, customers, local communities and our employees, and the Group’s basic management policy is based on the same view.

(The Group’s Management Principles)

Fukuoka Financial Group aims to become a financial group that creates value for all stakeholders by:

Enhancing perception and taking action without fear of failure,

Pursuing high quality for future progress, and

Bolstering people’s optimum choice.

Under these Group management principles, the Company, as a holding company to govern the Group, mainly consists of the core subsidiary banks, is working toward the realization of highly effective corporate governance for the purpose of optimizing the management resources of the Group and administering the Group as a whole in a sound and appropriate manner.

[Reasons for Non-compliance with the Principles of the Corporate Governance Code]

[Principle 1.4]

■ Basic Policies on cross-shareholding investments and examining the propriety of retaining them

The Company has set forth the following basic policies with regard to cross-shareholding investments.

“The basic policies specify that cross-shareholding investments aim for maintaining and strengthening stable and long-term business relationships with customers or maintaining and strengthening cooperative relationships in business operations, and these investments are conducted on a limited basis only when it is determined that they contribute to the mid- to long-term creation of higher corporate value of the Group.”

The Group, as a regional financial institution, retains holdings on a limited basis only when the rationality behind its retention can be confirmed, such as cases in which seeking the resolution of management issues and improvement of corporate value for investees by strengthening relationships, etc., through cross-shareholding investments lead to the development of the regional economy and simultaneously can improve the corporate value of the Group.

Based on this view, the rationality behind the retention of all stocks is verified regardless of whether they are listed or unlisted when the Group considers the acquisition of shares for cross-shareholding investments, or upon performing yearly reviews of holdings, and the Board of Directors receives and confirms reports on the results of verifications reviewing the holdings of listed stocks.

Specifically, after verifying the significance and economic rationality behind holding each stock, the Group thereafter verifies whether or not it can be rationally explained as contributing to the improvement of the corporate value of the Group. If the rationality of its holding is not recognized as a result of this verification, the stock will not be retained.

Economic rationality is verified from the perspective of whether the RORA (Return on Risk-weighted Assets) of each stock, calculated based on earnings generated through transactions, etc., meets the criteria for RORA that has been calculated based on the target ROE of the Company.

■ Basic views on the exercise of voting rights

The Company's basic views on the exercise of voting rights on cross-shareholding investments are as follows. "The exercise of voting rights on shares for cross-shareholding investments is performed after a comprehensive determination is made on whether or not it would contribute to the mid- to long-term growth of the issuing company and enhancement of shareholder value. Voting rights are, in principle, exercised for all agenda items upon reaching a decision of approval or disapproval with regard to each issuing company and agenda item."

The Group confirms the performance, ROE standard, dividend payout ratio, etc., for each cross-shareholding investment, and then reaches a decision on the approval or disapproval for each agenda item based on the view detailed above.

Within these, the following selection of agenda items, which may potentially have a significant impact on the mid- to long-term growth of the issuing company and enhancement of shareholder value, are designated as "important agenda items." Decisions to approve or disapprove proposals related to these agenda items are made with particular care.

"Important agenda items"

- Dissolution
- Business Transfer
- Merger
- Company Split
- Share Exchange
- Share Transfer
- Other agenda items that are suspected to be contrary to the mid- to long-term growth of the issuing company and enhancing shareholder value
