Notice Concerning Establishment of Technology Development Base

Makita Corporation announces that a meeting of our Board of Directors held today approved a resolution to establish a new technology development base in Shinagawa-ku, Tokyo.

1. Purpose of establishing the technology development base

We are currently focusing on the development, production and sales of cordless products that are environmentally friendly and convenient with the aim of becoming “a Supplier of a Comprehensive Range of Cordless Products,” and are actively expanding our cordless product lineup in order to meet the diverse needs of our customers.

To achieve this, we are striving to expand our development capacity and have decided to open a new technology development base in Shinagawa-ku, Tokyo, with the aim of securing even more engineers.

By establishing an electronic control development base in Tokyo, we expect to attract electronic control engineers living in the Kanto area.
