1. Qualitative Information for the Nine Months Ended December 31, 2022

(1) Review of Operating Results

Japanese Economy: During the period under review (April 1, 2022, to December 31, 2022), the Japanese economy showed recovery mainly due to personal consumption following the lifting of the “Priority Measures to Prevent the Spread of Infection” in March. While there were concerns about a slowdown in economies overseas such as Europe and the United States, and a decline in household purchasing power due to rising domestic prices, China reviewing its “zero-COVID” policy and an increase in the number of foreign visitors to Japan led by the easing of border control measures provided support. Meanwhile, the Bank of Japan revising its easing policy in December has triggered concerns that rising interest rates will put pressure on households and the corporate sector.

Looking Aboard: Regarding overseas markets, inflation has been prolonged particularly in Europe and the United States, and central banks in each country and region have continued to raise interest rates to control inflation. In particular, the possibility of the Eurozone and the United Kingdom entering a recession has increased. China’s move to ease its “zero-COVID” policy is expected to lead to its economic recovery. However, there are concerns that it will lead to an economic turmoil in the short term caused by the spread of COVID-19.

Japanese Stock Market: In the Japanese stock market, the Nikkei Stock Average, which started at the ¥27,600 mark in April, rose to the ¥28,000 mark at one point in early June due to the depreciation of the yen. It then fell to the ¥25,500 mark in mid-June, its lowest level for the period, as global stock prices fell due to concerns over inflation. After that, the summer rally led by U.S. stocks lifted the Nikkei Stock Average above ¥29,000 in mid-August but fell below ¥26,000 again in late September as it started to lose steam. After October, it rose again due to expectations of a smaller U.S. interest rate hike. However, after the Bank of Japan revised its easing policy in December, the index plunged and closed almost below ¥26,000 at the end of the month.

U.S. Stock Market: The Dow Jones Industrial Average opened at the $34,700 mark in April, continued its downward trend due to concerns over interest rate hikes, and temporarily fell below $30,000 in mid-June. Through mid-August, it temporarily recovered to the $34,000 mark due to the summer rally. However, as excessive optimism waned, the stock resold heavily, and the Dow Jones Industrial Average fell below $29,000 at one point at the end of September. The stock price then rose significantly due to inflation passing its peak and expectations of smaller interest rate hikes by the Federal Reserve, and it rose above the $34,000 mark again at the end of November. However, the rise of U.S. stock price slightly slowed down toward the end of December closing at the $33,000 mark.

Japanese Bond Market: Long-term interest rates in Japan (yield on 10-year JGB) started at 0.19% in April. In August, it fell to 0.16%, the lowest level for the period, as long-term interest rates in Japan came under downward pressure due to the decline in long-term interest rates in Europe and the United States caused by concerns over an economic recession. Still, it continued to trade mostly within a range of 0.20% to 0.25%. However, as U.S. long-term interest rates continued to rise in response to the Federal Reserve's aggressive tightening stance, the Bank of Japan abruptly changed the upper limit of long-term interest rates from around 0.25% to around 0.50% at its Monetary Policy Meeting in December. As a result, the interest rate temporarily rose to 0.48% and ended the December trade at 0.42%.

U.S. Bond Market: On the other hand, long-term interest rates in the United States, which started in April at 2.34%, the lowest level for the period, rose to the 3.49% mark in June due to the Federal Reserve's tightening stance. It then fell to 2.51% at one point in August caused by fears of a U.S. economic downturn and expectations that inflation was peaking. However, as the Federal Reserve strengthened its stance of tightening policy by continuing to raise interest rates significantly by 0.75%, the long-term interest rate rose sharply to 4.33% in October, the highest level for the period. However, the U.S. inflation clearly peaked and led the long-term interest to a downward trend after October, and the trade closed at 3.87% for the month of December.

Foreign Exchange Market: The dollar-to-yen exchange rate opened in April at around $1 to ¥121, a period low. The yen selling continued because of the strong dollar following U.S. interest rate hikes and the widened Japanese trade deficit. After clearly breaking through the “Kuroda Ceiling,” ¥125 to the dollar mark, yen selling gained momentum, reaching the ¥139 mark in July.

In August, it fell to the ¥130 mark in reaction to concerns over the U.S. economic slowdown and speculations about the change in monetary easing policy by the Bank of Japan. However, as the Federal Reserve continued to raise interest rates aggressively, the dollar strengthened significantly reaching the ¥151 mark in October, the highest level for the period. However, in addition to expectations that the U.S. inflation will pass its peak, the Bank of Japan unexpectedly decided to revise its monetary easing policy in December. As a result, yen buying increased, and the market dropped to the ¥130 mark at one point before closing the December session at the ¥131 mark.

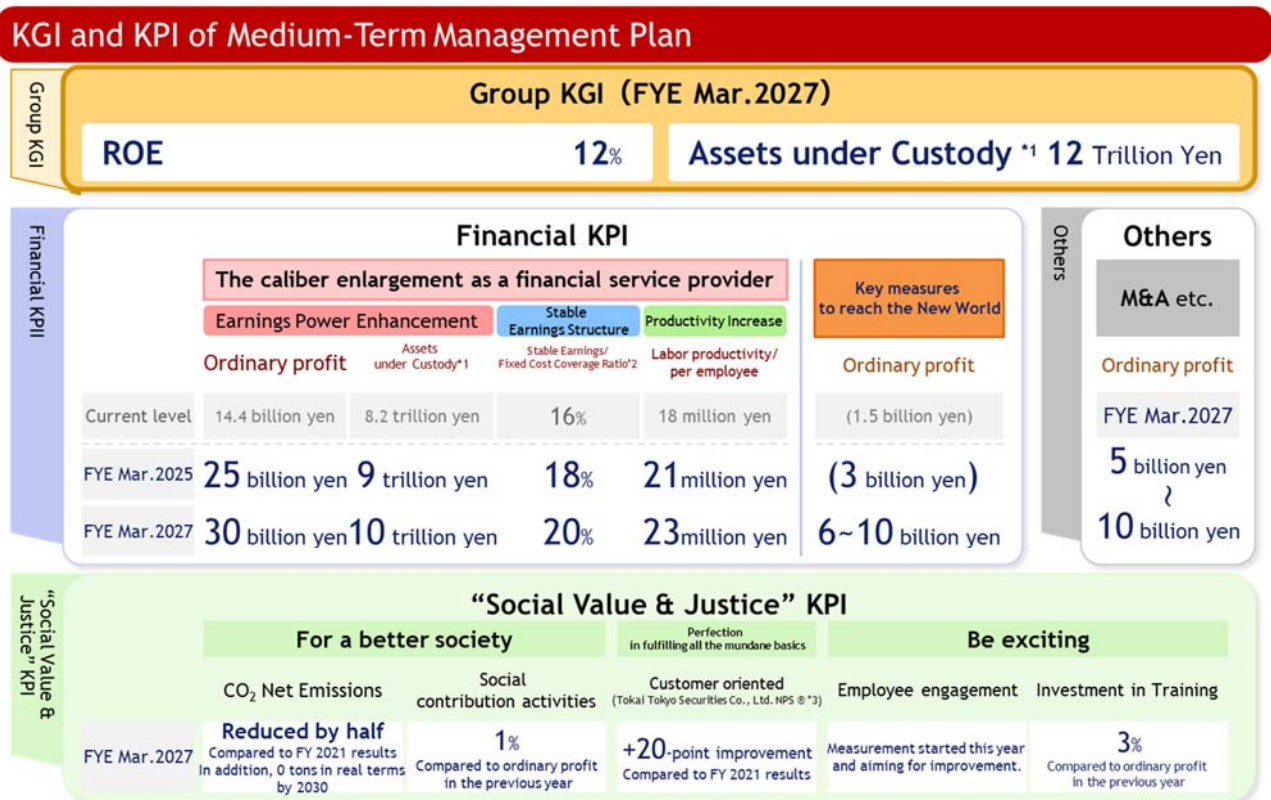

Amid this market environment, the Group has formulated a new medium-term management plan, “Beyond Our Limits” (hereinafter referred to as the “plan”), which covers the five years from fiscal 2022 to fiscal 2026 and set numerical targets in order to achieve further growth.

The plan aims to make the Company a “corporate group with admiration and respect” by taking on the challenge of reaching the “New World” with “‘Social Value & Justice’ comes first” as its action guidelines. As the basic policy of our strategy for this purpose, we will work to significantly improve the attractiveness of the Group by “The caliber enlargement as a financial service provider,” to form an alliance with “Powerful Partners” (*1) through “Key measures to reach the New World,” and to acquire new functions as “New Bonanza.” (*2)

Based on the above composition, the numerical targets in this plan will be pursued by the entire Group as the Group KGI. We set two KPIs to achieve the Group KGI, one is the financial KPI linked to “The caliber enlargement as a financial service provider” and “Key measures to reach the New World,” and the other is “Social Value & Justice” KPI.

*1 Partners such as electric power companies, telecommunications companies, financial institutions, trading companies, real estate, universities, regional banks and local governments

*2 Businesses and functions that will become a new gold mine

*The KGI is based on information currently available to the Company and certain assumptions deemed reasonable, such as the House View by Tokai Tokyo Research Institute Co., Ltd. as of August 2022, where the Nikkei Stock Average forecast as of the end of September 2023 is 34,000 yen. The numerical targets may be revised if the market environment changes significantly.

*1 Assets under Custody: Securities, deposits, insurance etc. The Group KGI financial assets under custody of 12 trillion yen indicates the Group's overall target as of the end of March 2027. Of this target, 10 trillion yen is targeted in “The caliber enlargement as a financial service provider” and 2 trillion yen in areas such as “Key measures to reach the New World.”

*2 Stable Earnings here denotes the balance-linked and continuously earning revenues as time passes (such as investment trust-related trust fees, fees from wrap handling, credit provision, insurance fees, lending against collateralized securities, and investment advisory service).

New World “The basic policy of strategy formation”: As an initiative pertaining to “The caliber enlargement as a financial service provider” set forth in the New World “The basic policy of strategy formation” of this plan, Tokai Tokyo Securities Co., Ltd.
