To shareholders

I would like to express our gratitude to shareholders for continued support.

The fiscal year ended March 31, 2023 was a year in which social and economic activities were going back to normal with a progress in adaptation to life with COVID-19, following the relaxation of restrictions on people's movement and other activities. On the other hand, there emerged situations that affected the business environment, such as instability in the international situation, price hikes and the ongoing yen depreciation.

In addition to the foregoing, there was a slowdown in demand for semiconductors across the globe, mainly in the memory market, which caused an enormous impact. Due to a decline in production of semiconductor manufacturers associated with their inventory adjustment, we were forced to revise the plan that we drew up at the beginning of the year for the Semiconductors, a mainstay of the Group's High-purity Chemical Business. The situation is expected to continue until autumn or winter 2023, and it is undeniable that the business environment surrounding the Group will remain challenging for the foreseeable future. However, it is also true that potential demand for semiconductors is strong around the world, with construction projects of new semiconductor plants being planned in and out of Japan, despite some delays. As it is the field with growth potential for a medium to long term, the Semiconductors will remain our mainstay business on which we continue to focus our efforts.

In order to increase corporate value, we will also seek to achieve an optimum balance between investments in growth and shareholder returns, with an emphasis placed on capital efficiency, profitability, and a long-term perspective with an eye on sustainable growth.

We ask for shareholders' continued support and encouragement to the Group.

Aki Hashimoto
Representative Director,
President and Chief Executive Officer

TOPICS

■ Introduction of a restricted stock grant plan

The Company believes that it is our people that serve as the driving force of sustainable corporate growth. Based on this belief, we introduce a restricted stock grant plan to employees who satisfy certain conditions. We will increase employees' sense of participation in management through their stockholding, further proceed to share benefit with shareholders, and work as one toward enhancing corporate value.

■ Next Generation Materials Research Lab starts operation

In order to consolidate research and development bases that had spread across the nation, we were constructing a Next Generation Materials Research Lab within the premises of Sanpo Factory. We have completed the construction and started its operation in February 2023. The R&D facilities have been also revamped as we seek to increase operational efficiency, while accelerating development of new products supporting future growth.

■ Overhaul and consolidation of filling equipment for small and medium sized containers

With the expansion of the semiconductor market, shipments of high-purity chemical solutions for semiconductors, which are our mainstay products, are strong targeting semiconductor manufacturers both in Japan and abroad. For the ease of handling and convenience in transportation, there is a trend that calls for supply in small and medium sized containers. To address this demand, we decided to overhaul our filling equipment for small and medium sized containers and to consolidate the equipment at the Company's Sanpo Factory. The completion is scheduled in March 2024. We will increase our filling capacity, achieve greater efficiency, and reduce process expenses.

■ Development and enhancement of production facilities

[Enriched boric acid]

New construction and resumption of operations of nuclear power plants in and out of Japan are expected to boost the demand for enriched boric acid. Given this situation, the Company will develop and improve its existing production facilities aiming for stable supply.

[Tin fluoride]

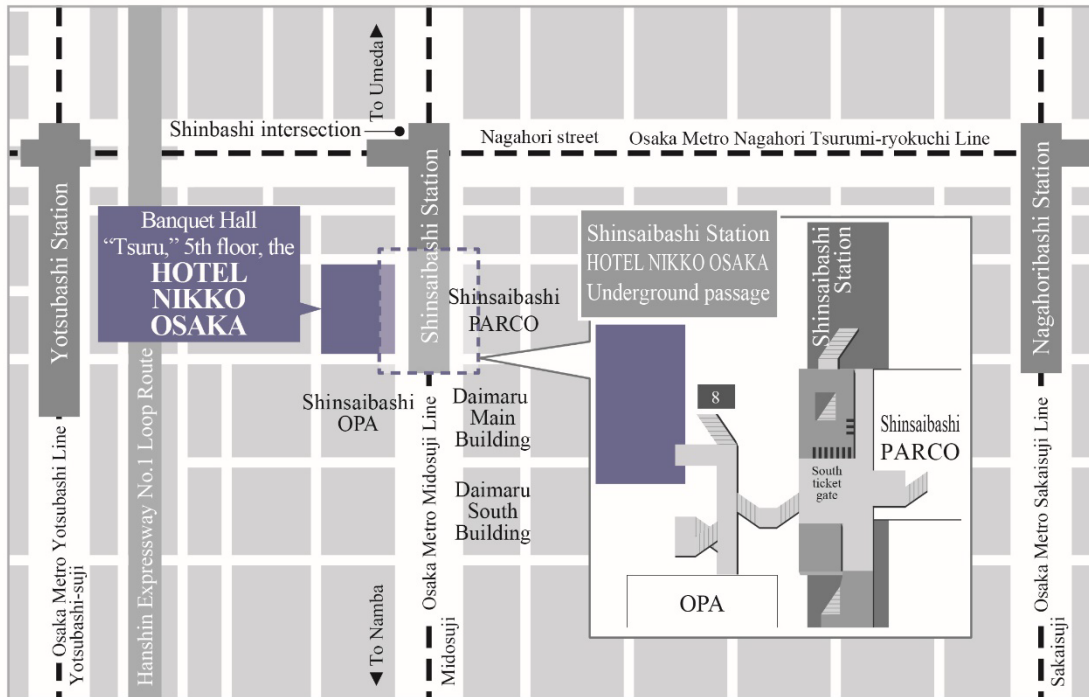

While adopted for oral care products demanded typically in Europe and the United States, tin fluoride is expected to demonstrate effects in new applications in recent years. We will enhance our production capacity to accommodate requests from customers, while striving to build a more robust and stable supply system.

■ Development of cell culture container

By applying the unique surface treatment technology cultivated in High-purity Chemical Business, the Company developed a cell culture container with extremely excellent cultivation performance. Primary culture cells, which are generally difficult to be grown, can be cultivated easily in the Company's container without special treatment. We have started providing samples to research institutions and pharmaceutical companies. Going forward, several product lineups will be developed in response to customer needs. The Company promotes research and development with a view to exploring applicability for other usages and developing more high-functional culture substratum.
