【Reasons for Non-compliance with the Principles of the Corporate Governance Code】

The company has implemented all of the principles of the Corporate Governance Code.

【Disclosure Based on the Principles of the Corporate Governance Code】 UPDATED

Principle 1-4 Cross-Shareholdings

(1) Policy regarding Cross-Shareholdings

The Company’s basic policy on crossholding of stocks is to limit its collaborative/cooperative relationship with counterparties to within a reasonable scope with the aim of achieving the Company’s business advantages.

(2) Assessment regarding individual cross-shareholdings

For each individual stocks held by the Company, the Company examines each stock, such as the purpose of holding, nature of transactions, future business significance and risks etc. On top of these verification from strategic viewpoint, the return associated with holdings and the cost of capital are compared and the appropriateness of holding is determined by the execution side. The result is assessed by the Board of Directors. If a continued holding is determined to be inappropriate, its treatment shall be studied, including sell-off.

As a result, the Company holds three crossheld stocks (including deemed holdings) as of March 31, 2023.

(3) Voting rights regarding Cross-Shareholdings

In view of the purpose of holding the stock and after thoroughly examining the management policy and strategy of the holding company, we will decide whether to approve the proposal from the perspective of improving corporate value over the medium to long term.

Principle 1-7 Related Party Transactions

The Company has an internal rule covering all transactions including those with its directors or major shareholders. Such rule provides for transactions to be reviewed by various functions e.g. financial, accounting, tax, legal, etc. and approved by the appropriate level of decider depending on the importance and nature of the transactions.

Besides, in case of any transaction that involves conflicts of interest between the Company and a director or an executive officer, the Board Regulations provide that board approval, as well as a post-fact report of important facts associated with such a transaction to the board, are required. In addition, the Director Conflict of Interest Resolution Policy defines the conflicts of interest between a director and the Company, requires directors to report any actual, potential or perceived conflicts and also establishes the procedures to resolve such conflicts. Further, the Global Conflict of Interest Code came into force in March 2022 and applies to all officers and employees.

Supplementary Principle 2-4-1 Ensure diversity in core human resources

(1) Promoting workplace diversity

Since the start of Alliance in 1999, Nissan has pioneered to promote diversity, equity, and inclusion (hereinafter referred to as DEI) as one of its key corporate strategies in Japan. DEI is now embedded into the corporate culture or DNA of Nissan. Nissan has recently upheld its DEI mission: 'Foster a diverse and inclusive environment where we value and respect employees to drive innovation in automotive products and services that enrich people's lives', and now is accelerating its penetration as a source of company's competitiveness. Employees with different backgrounds and perspectives lead to the creation of new value while meeting the increasingly diverse needs of our customers. We place great importance on establishing a truly inclusive organization where employees can demonstrate their potential to the fullest, which is our corporate strength. We have established a Global DEI council chaired by the CEO with executives representing respective divisions and regions as its members. This council makes decisions on Global DEI policy and direction of initiatives. Also, regional DEI councils operate under the respective region chairpersons so that the regions can execute the initiatives as global Nissan actions in alignment with the Global council's decision as well as making their effort to handle various diversity issues faced locally.

(2) Actively hiring females, non-Japanese and mid-career talents

Nissan has nurtured a corporate culture that allows anyone to perform their potential to the fullest regardless of their genders, nationalities or career backgrounds, which is reflected in a high percentage of female, non-Japanese and mid-career talents in management.

i) Female manager ratio

•Ratio based on Nissan Motor Co., Ltd. (Non-consolidated) Actual : 10.4% (March 2023)

•Ratio based on Global Nissan group Actual : 15.5% (March 2023) (71 overseas companies including the above)

As for the ratio of female managers, Nissan aims to narrow the gap between the ratio of female managers and the ratio of female indirect employees. As of March 2023, the ratio of female managers was 10.4%, and this ratio will be brought closer to 19.8%, the ratio of female indirect employees. Nissan has a high female management ratio compared to our peers in the automotive industry or other manufacturers in Japan. However, there is further opportunity for enhancement compared to other industries. To further increase the ratio of female managers, we will target to raise the ratio of female indirect employees to 30% by accelerating the hiring and development of women to enrich the pipeline. Specifically, we will support females' career development through a range of measures, such as talent development trainings, mentoring programs, career interviews by career advisors, and employee mixer events, to help females overcome obstacles in their career pursuit. In Nissan, the CEO, COO, and other executives communicate directly with female leaders, young employees, and mid-career talents at roundtable events, actively committing themselves to females' career development. Nissan has received considerable external recognition such as third-level "Eruboshi" accreditation, as a company that successfully promotes female participation in the workplace. Nissan is accelerating women's empowerment not only in Japan but also globally. Additionally, among the officers defined by the Companies Act (Board of Directors and Executive Officers), female ratio is 23.1% (June 2023).

ii) Non-Japanese manager ratio

•Ratio based on Nissan Motor Co., Ltd. (Japan) Actual: 5.8% (March 2023)

Since the Alliance began in 1999, Nissan has been actively empowering non-Japanese talents. Nissan's non-Japanese ratio in management is the highest level among Japanese companies. We continue to hire, develop and promote talents regardless of nationalities while keeping the same level of non-Japanese ratio in management. In Nissan Japan, both our non-Japanese ratio in management and that in indirect employees are 5.8%. Additionally, among the officers defined by the Companies Act (Board of Directors and Executive Officers), the non-Japanese ratio is 46.2% (June 2023).

iii) Mid-career recruitment manager ratio

• Ratio based on Nissan Motor Co, Ltd. (Japan) Actual: 34.8% (March 2023)

On a regular basis, Nissan hires, develops and promotes talents with various career backgrounds. Nissan's mid-career recruitment ratio in management is higher than the average Japanese companies. Our mid-career recruiting ratio in management exceeds that in indirect employees. In Nissan Japan, our mid-career recruitment ratio in management is 34.8%, and that in indirect employees is 31.1%.

(3) Nurturing and Retaining Diverse Talents

In order to leverage diversity as a true strength, create greater value, and meet the diverse needs of customers, we believe it is important to establish a culture of DEI, where employees acknowledge and accept each other without discrimination or bias.

Nissan has continuously provided local events and worldwide training on DEI.

To equally provide career opportunities to all employees regardless of gender, career histories, culture and generation, we implemented diversity management training for management and unconscious bias training for all employees globally. Also, employees can learn about the concepts and importance of DEI and related internal efforts through articles on the global intranet and readily available e-learning.

(4) Aligning work environment to varied needs of diverse talents

Nissan is implementing a series of workstyle reforms that provide a crucial foundation for supporting DEI and allow employees with a range of values and life needs to perform at their best.

In the 1990s, we started encouraging employees to use paid leave and introduced flex time work arrangements to increase flexibility in the employees' workstyles. Remote working systems were also available, regardless of the reason or need, even before the pandemic. This is how we have provided employees with varied work style options to choose from according to their situations.

We are building an environment to help employees balance work with childcare through both facilities, such as on-site childcare centers, and initiatives, such as seminars and organizational support. Onsite nurseries first started at our Nissan Technical Center (NTC) in 2005, then at Nissan Global Information System Center (NGIC) and at Nissan Global Headquarters (GHQ) in 2012 and 2013 respectively. In 2017, our first onsite nursery on a plant premise opened in Oppama and in 2022, we opened our fifth on-site childcare center, "March Land Yokohama," at the Yokohama plant. The nursery is available during all shift hours to support employees working at the plant.

Both Nissan's DEI initiatives and its attitude of emphasizing employee diversity, have been promoted and have received external recognition. Major awards include the following:

Supplementary Principle 3-1-3 Disclosure of Sustainability Initiatives

(1) Sustainability initiatives and governance

To realize our corporate purpose, "Driving Innovation to Enrich People's Lives", Nissan will create innovative vehicles and services that are full of originality and provide excellent value to all stakeholders as a trusted company. To this end, we frequently discuss social and environmental issues at the top management level meetings, and we are implementing a sustainability strategy that identifies key issues that should be addressed by the entire group company as a global company and as an automaker. "Nissan Sustainability 2022" formulated in 2018 supports the execution of our Corporate Mid-term Strategy clarifies our key issues from the "E (Environmental)", "S (Social)" and "G (Governance)" point of view, aiming for sustainable growth as a company and shows our efforts to contribute to the sustainable society development.

Nissan's ultimate goals are realizing "Zero emission" to achieve carbon neutrality in the entire life cycle of the vehicle, including business operations by 2050, and "Zero fatality" to eliminate virtually all fatalities that result from traffic accidents involving Nissan vehicles.

"EV leadership" and "Expansion of Autonomous Driving vehicles" in our corporate strategy are specific themes for the realization of "Zero emission" and "Zero fatality" and Nissan promotes relevant activities by setting long-term visions, the goals for 2022, KPIs and target for more detailed ESG initiatives in "Nissan Sustainability 2022". In addition, Nissan will work together by growing as an inclusive organization that supports a diverse range of employees in demonstrating their abilities and developing as professionals over the medium and long term.

Furthermore, we review the key issues as appropriate based on the concerns and interests of our stakeholders and the latest trends in technological innovation and reflect them in our sustainability strategy. As part of that in FY2021, Nissan defined "Nissan's Human Rights Want-to-be Statement" and clarified important issues, policies, and systems, and Nissan continues to globally and continuously strengthen management based on the Statement. Company-wide management of specific activities under Nissan's sustainability strategy, from setting goals to monitoring progress, is the responsibility of the Global Sustainability Steering Committee, held twice a year chaired by the company's Chief Sustainability Officer (CSO). And the results of discussions at the Global Sustainability Steering Committee are reported and proposed to the Executive Committee (EC), Nissan's highest decision-making body, which then uses that information to make decisions on sustainability policies and future initiatives.

In FY2021, the Company added new performance indicators for sustainability in the performance-based cash incentive that form a part of the long-term incentive program for our executives.

Nissan is currently considering what kind of value we will create over the long term and contribute to solving social issues and achieving SDGs goals, not only to realize the sustainability of the company but also to the society by utilizing an "Outside-In approach" to contribute to sustainability and are actively discussing it among relevant executives, including Executive Committee members.

In November 2021, Nissan announced our long-term vision "Nissan Ambition 2030" and we are working to realize our corporate purpose by incorporating sustainability into its management framework and corporate strategy more clearly.

(2) Impact of climate change risks and profit opportunities on our business activities and profits

Nissan is persistently addressing significant environmental issues such as climate change by establishing targets and KPIs in its mid-term environmental action plan, the Nissan Green Program.

Furthermore, in January 2021, Nissan announced a new goal to achieve carbon neutrality across the company's operations and the life cycle of its products by 2050. As part of this effort, by the early 2030s, every all-new Nissan vehicle offering in key markets will be electrified and pursue further innovations in electrification and manufacturing technology. The life cycle includes raw material extraction, manufacturing, use of vehicles, and the recycling or reuse of end-of-life vehicles.

The electrification of vehicles is an opportunity to create a decarbonized society, contributing to business activities and profits, and creating value for society. This is in line with Nissan's corporate purpose of "Driving innovation to enrich people's lives." We are developing the fifth generation of the Nissan Green Program to improve resilience further. This will clarify the direction of technological evolution and social collaboration for the future, and we will share the goals with our supply chain and partners to aim together to address environmental issues and create social values.

We fully support TCFD recommendations and have been a member of the TCFD Consortium in Japan since its establishment. To comply with the recommendations, we conducted scenario analyses to reveal the impact of climate change-related risks and opportunities on our business operations, management strategies, and financial plans to be disclosed in our financial report and sustainability report.

In August 2021, the company also received Science-based Target (SBT) certification. This ensures that Nissan's 2030 CO2 reduction target has been validated as being aligned with the latest climate science.

(3) Investing in human resources and intellectual properties

Nissan sees its employees as its most valued assets and their development essential for the growth of both the Company and individual employees. To nurture a strong culture of voluntary and active self-learning of the employees, a range of talent development measures have been taken to help individuals reach their full potential, which will drive the Company's growth as well. Nissan is offering a full variety of trainings to meet the employees' varied needs for their career development both in knowledge and skills on themes such as effective management, business in general, or leadership.

To be specific, we have mandatory trainings designed for respective career stages and different job grades, as well as optional trainings that people can choose according to their interest, and e-learning courses available globally for their further self-study. We are also shifting from in-class trainings to online trainings to change with changing times, building infrastructure for the employees to take their trainings remotely on their personal mobile devices. In FY2022, our online courses were accessed by 519,905 people who spent a total of 392,294 hours on our online courses. That was 16.5 hours per person and their satisfaction rating was 4.2 or above (Highest rating :5.0). Amount invested on each talent was 75,000 yen.

Increasing our business competitiveness is essential for the Company to survive and thrive in future. And investing on the source of our competitiveness, that is, talent especially in R&D as well as intellectual property is crucial. So, we will keep active investment on our valued assets.

As one of examples for our investment on human resources, we established Nissan Software Training Center (STC) at the site of Nissan Advanced Technology Center (NATC) in 2017 to develop engineers who have skills for both cars and software development. The ongoing technological advances in CASE areas foretells us that software will hold the key to car business success in future. STC has provided both knowledge and skill courses to develop talents who can fulfill their jobs in the coming digitalization age.

One of examples for our investment on the creation and acquisition of intellectual property is laid out in Nissan Ambition 2030, a long-term vision presented in November, 2021. In the vision, Nissan places electrification at the core of its long-term strategy and describe plans to invest approximately 2 trillion yen over the next five years to accelerate the electrification of its vehicle lineup and the innovation of its technology. As for all-solid-state batteries, Nissan aims to launch EVs with its proprietary batteries by fiscal year 2028 and introduce a pilot plant in Yokohama by fiscal year 2024. Nissan is focusing particularly on cutting-edge technologies needed to produce competitive products in areas such as autonomous driving and electrification in the era of CASE through close collaboration of R&D and production departments. Nissan is also promoting development of a high-quality global patent portfolio by creating an environment that facilitates innovations in these areas and obtaining patents resulting from the innovations.

Nissan is also actively investing in intellectual property other than patents, such as trademarks and designs. To strengthen our brand power as a part of corporate competitiveness, Nissan has been strategically creating a global trademark portfolio in accordance with our market size, which consists of house marks, vehicle model names and technology names that promote and strengthen our brands. For the unique designs of our products, Nissan has applied for design patents and built a global design patent portfolio to prevent others from imitating Nissan's unique designs.

【Incentives】

Incentive Policies for Directors / Executive Officers	Performance based cash incentive, Others

Supplementary Explanation

The compensation paid to the Company's executive officers consists of (1) a fixed basic compensation and (2) an annual bonus and long-term incentive (that are collectively described as variable compensation).

In order to make the compensation system and compensation composition focus on improving mid- to long-term corporate value and shareholder value, the proportion of long-term incentive composition (especially performance-based compensation) is set higher, and the composition ratio of compensation for the representative executive officer serving as the CEO is estimated to be "basic compensation : annual bonus (base amount) : long-term incentive (base amount)" = "1 (26.7%) : 1 (26.7%) : 1.8 (46.6%)." The composition ratio of compensation for the representative executive officer (COO) and other executive officers are determined according to the composition ratio of compensation for the representative executive officer (CEO) and based on respective duties and compensation level, and the upper-ranked executive officers have a higher percentage of variable compensation (annual bonus and long-term incentive) as a proportion of total compensation.

The composition ratio of compensation for this fiscal year is disclosed in pages 68-69 of Financial Information as of March 31, 2023.

Variable compensation consists of an "annual bonus" paid according to annual business performance, and two types of "long-term incentive compensation" designed to motivate executive officers to take actions that enhance shareholder value and sustainable growth and profitability for the company. This "long-term incentive compensation" consists of both the non-performance-linked compensation "restricted stock units (RSUs)" and a "performance-based cash incentive" that is paid only when the objectives are achieved. As a result, the Company's executive officers' variable compensation programs are designed to motivate management to achieve both annual performance objectives as well as mid- to long-term business performance objectives and to enhance the shareholder value.

Annual bonus

The annual bonus which is a performance-based compensation is paid based on the calculation of multiplying the annual basic compensation by eligible percentage set for each executive position and the total achievement rate for a set of performance indicators that are defined for sustainable growth.

This policy is disclosed in pages 69-70 of Financial Information as of March 31, 2023.

Long-term incentive program

The Company's long-term incentive program consists of two compensation vehicles: "Restricted Stock Units (RSUs) " and "performance-based cash incentive". The "Restricted Stock Units (RSUs) " represent 40% and the "performance-based cash incentive" represents 60% of the total long-term incentive program. The performance-based cash incentive uses a multi-year performance period to reward long-term value creation as opposed to short-term results, which are rewarded through the annual bonus. This award was intentionally designed to be 1.5 times larger than the "Restricted Stock Units (RSUs) " award.

This policy is disclosed in pages 70-73 of Financial Information as of March 31, 2023.
