2. Reasons for Revisions

With regard to consolidated operating results forecasts, net sales are expected to decrease year on year due in part to the exclusion of JSP Corporation from the scope of consolidation at the end of December 2023. However, the MGC Group expects each profit indicator to remain in line with the previous forecast due mainly to the improving profitability of overseas production companies for polycarbonate and electronic chemicals, and an upturn in optical polymer sales volume, despite a projection involving lower sales volumes for meta-xylenediamine and aromatic aldehydes, as well as deterioration in the profitability of MMA products.

As for full-year forecasts for non-consolidated operating results, net sales and operating profit are expected to fall short of the previous forecasts, reflecting such factors as lower sales volumes for meta-xylenediamine and aromatic aldehydes, and the deteriorating profitability of MMA products, despite the expected increase in optical polymer sales volume. Similarly, ordinary profit is likely to fall short of the previous forecast due to lower operating profit, a decline in dividend income from affiliates, and other factors. On the other hand, the Group anticipates that net profit will remain in line with the previous forecast as the expected decrease in ordinary profit will be offset by, for example, proceeds from the sale of shares in JSP Corporation and the recording of insurance claim income, both of which will result in growth in extraordinary gains.
